

PR WANTS YOU!

We of the Public Relations Subcommittee would like to see Portland Area's Newline come back to life, but we don't have enough bodies for the job.

Newline? What the heck is that?

It's a newsletter containing articles of interest to the fellowship of Portland Area.

Who writes the articles?

The articles will come from a variety of sources. The Area Chair is generally a contributor. We encourage submissions from each subcommittee, as well as inviting contributions from the fellowship at large for personal stories, recovery oriented poetry and humor.

What requirements do I need?

First, you need access to a computer.

Second, you will need to become a member of PR and come to our business meetings.

Third, you need to be willing. It will help if you have a creative streak.

There is no clean time requirement for this position.

Portland Public Relations Subcommittee is looking for volunteers to create a newsletter. This is not a one person job - we need a group of people willing to start this from bare bones. If you've been looking for just the right service position but haven't found it, this could be it.

Our goal is to produce a publication that will be printed monthly and copies made available to all GSRs to take back to their home groups at Area.

The intent is to promote unity throughout the fellowship.

We can also swap newsletters with other areas and see what's going on elsewhere.
